Introduction

• Student and staff collaboration on design and implementation of innovative ASPEN project:

  Students as Colleagues in the Review of Teaching Practices

• Student’s perspective

• Feasibility and effectiveness

• Implications at institutional level
Why peer review?
Why students as colleagues?

Brookfield (2006)

D’Andrea and Gosling (2005)
Gosling and O’Connor (2009)
The Project

- Innovative pilot study: spirit of collegiality, discovery and learning for all!
- Students to act as a colleague, tasked with professionally reviewing the teaching practices of a paired volunteer staff member from different discipline.
- Trimester 1: Begin to develop a relationship and engage in training.
- Trimester 2: Student to conduct 4 evaluative exercises and provide written and face-to-face feedback.

Research questions: Field testing the feasibility, and understanding the value of, feedback which is delivered over a variety of activities and through different relationships.
Evaluative Exercises (Trim 2)

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>December onwards</td>
<td>Review associated Moodle pages and course material</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>From Week 2</td>
<td>Observe (minimum of) one lecture/workshop/tutorial</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>From Week 3</td>
<td>Conduct a small focus group with staff member’s students</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>After coursework has been marked</td>
<td>Review feedback examples from assessed coursework</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Purpose:

1. Better understand the value of constructive feedback.

2. Enable students to perform a broad review of a staff members’ practice and provide professional feedback.

3. Better understand the professional developmental advantages of providing critical feedback based on observation and reviewing exercises.

We are not teaching students to be expert reviewers; we are better enabling them to articulate their already valuable perspectives as constructive feedback in a professional manner.

Student Perspective - Kelda

• Motivation
• Managing the transition into a collegial relationship
• Continuing relationships
  – water-cooler moments
Effectiveness of Student-Staff Engagement

Can we foster authentic and credible relationships between student and staff?

Unpredictability of relationship pairing and development:
• Age and similar life experience
• Proximity
• Engagement with paired discipline
• Managing communication expectations
  – defining ‘collegiality’
Feasibility of project

- Low attrition
- Timetabling and academic pressures
- Paid vs voluntary for students
- Staff involvement
- Facilitation
  - Training and support
  - Collegial relationships need enabling
Implications for Institution

Student outcomes:
Professional and personal capacities
Understand concepts behind teaching practices
Develop relationships with staff and other students outwith discipline

Staff outcomes through engaging with students:
Fresh point of view from key stakeholder
HEA teaching fellow application

Innovate peer review process going forward…
